Green Quill 1973

Pleasantville High School

Pleasantville, New York

You have given unselfishly of yourself, always ready with more than your share of time and dedication. You pushed us to perfection. Your pleasant appearance and kind attitude attracted us, and we came to know you as a Great Man and teacher. Though often referred to as Tricky Dick, WE PROUDLY CALL YOU COACH. With deep respect, love, and thanks . . .

We dedicate the 1973 Green Quill to you, Richard Rote.

And to think that I saw it
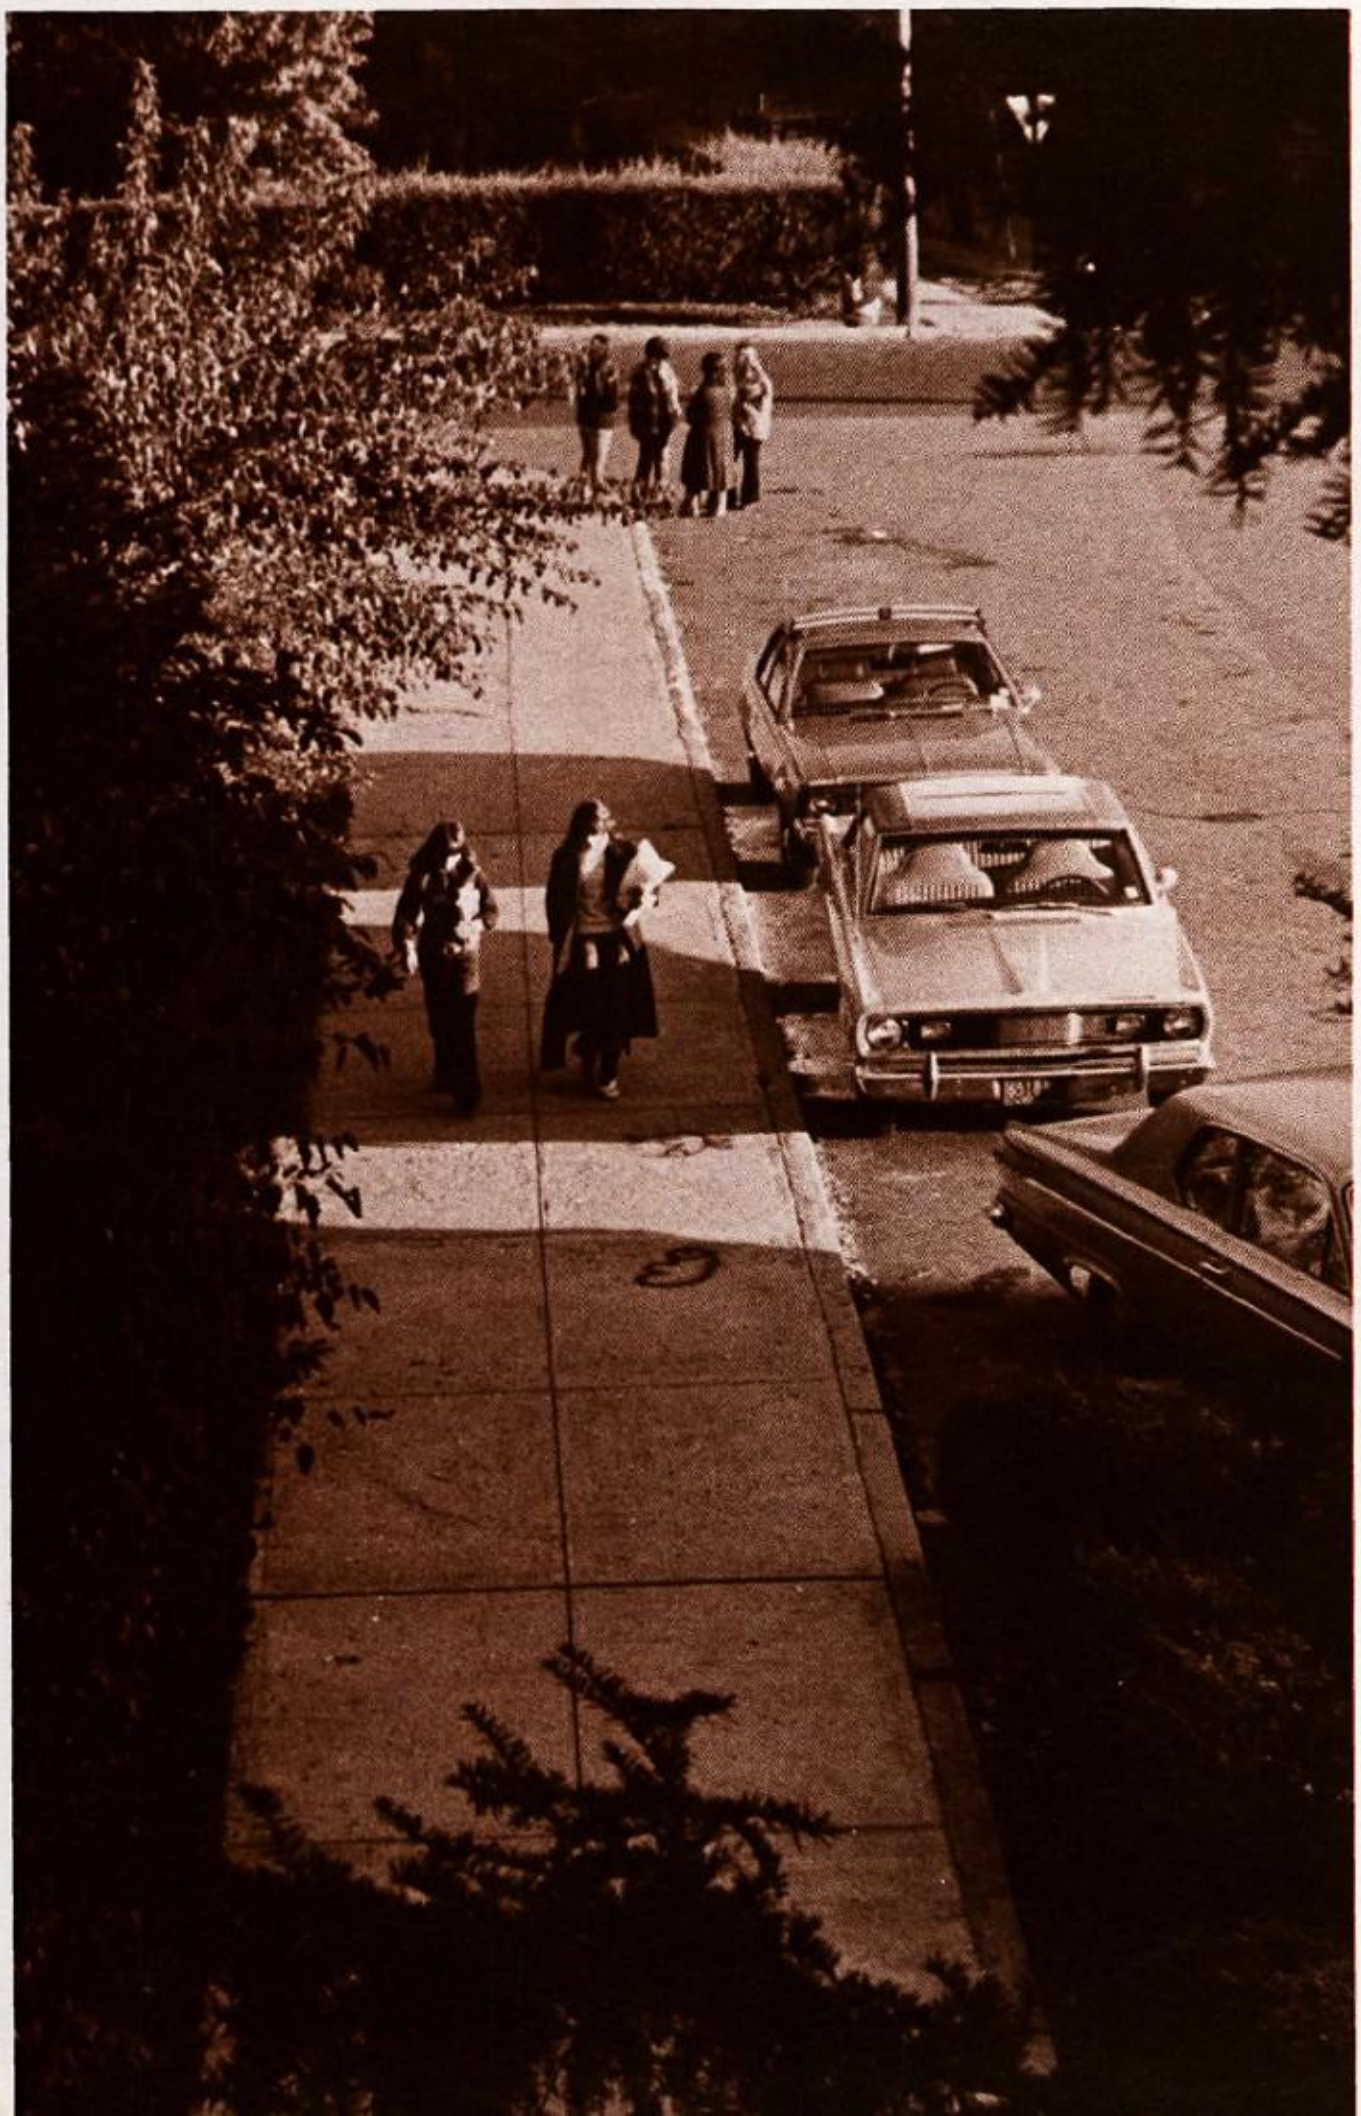
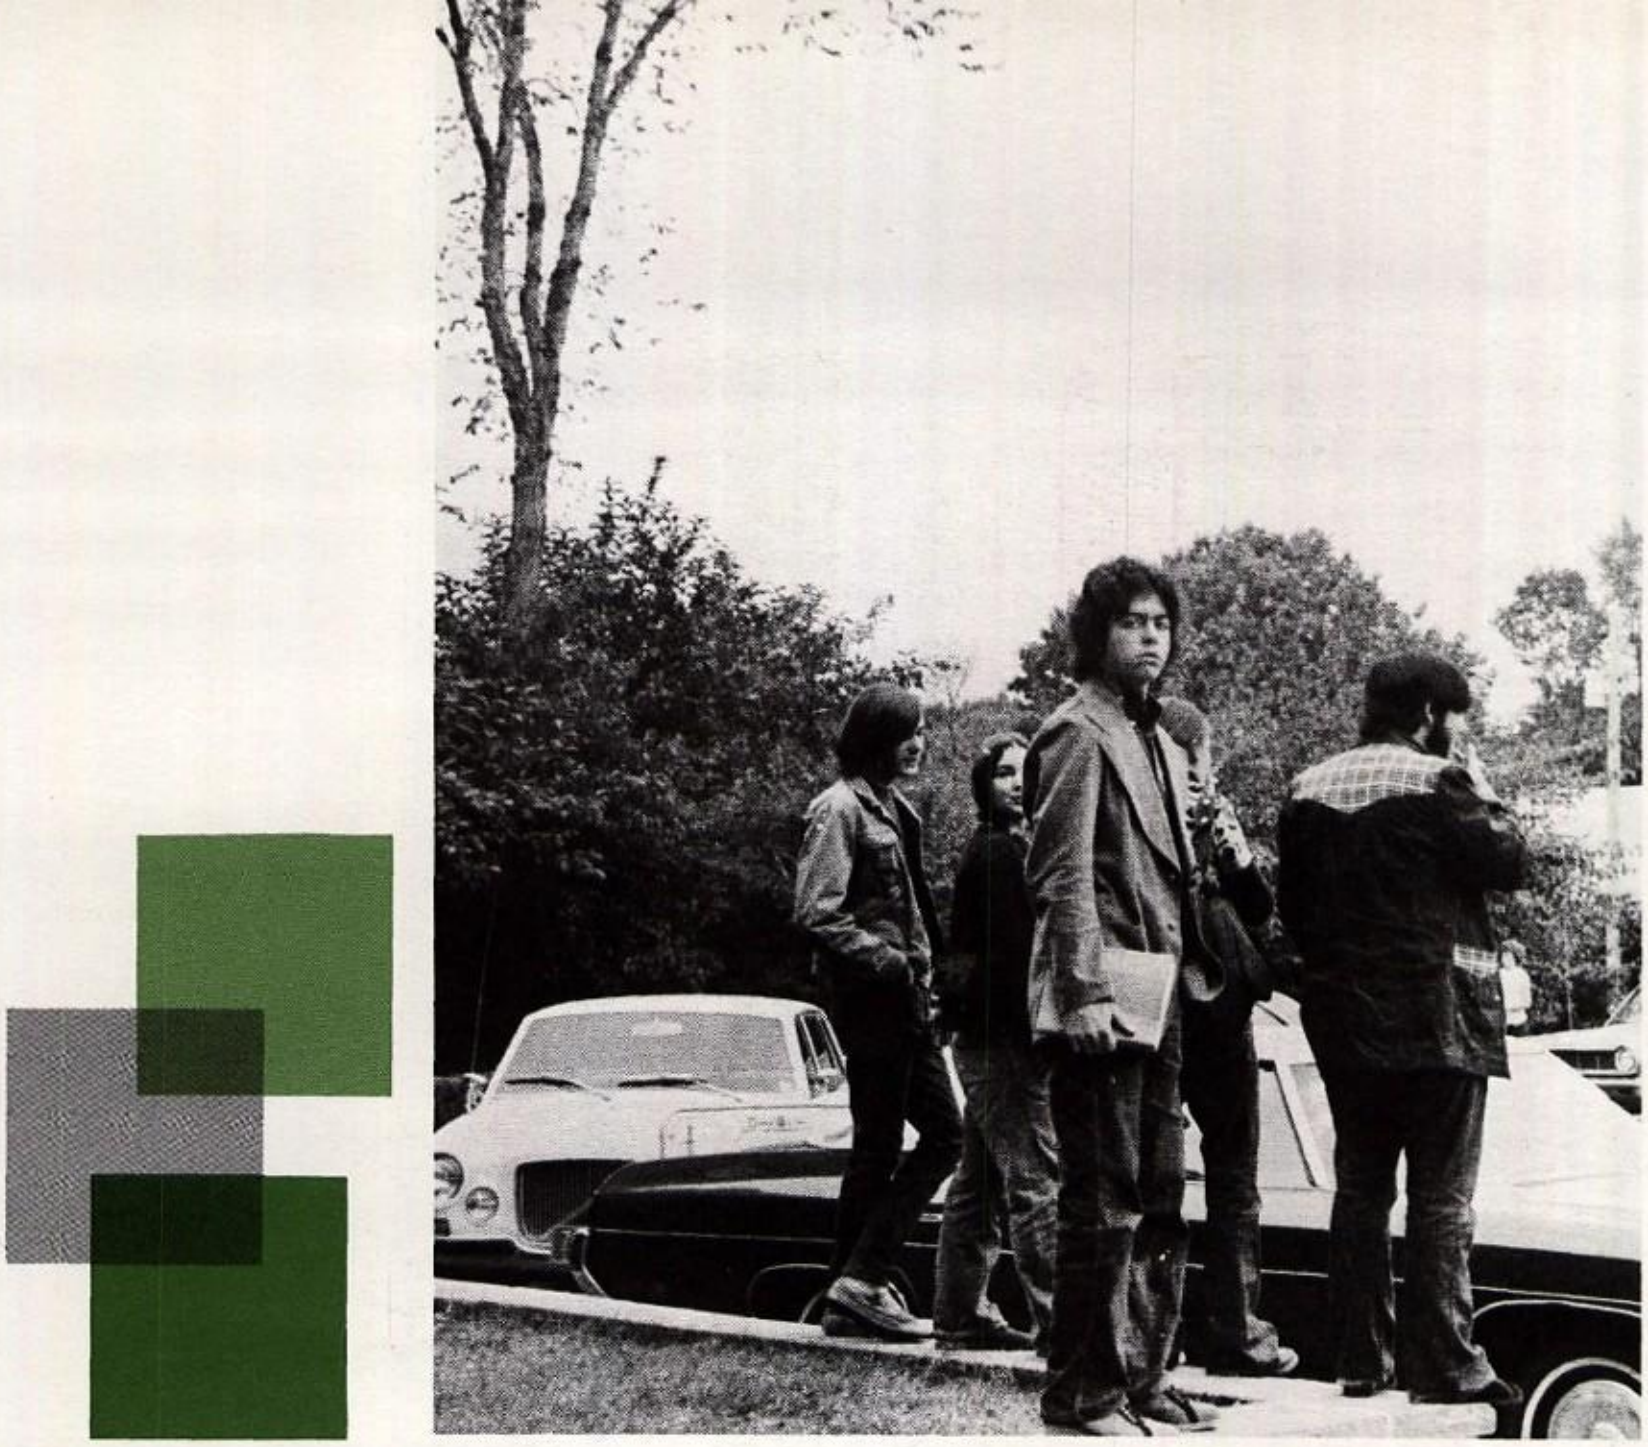
on Romer Avenue . . .





All the long way to school
and all the way back,
I look and I look
and I keep careful track,
but all that I notice
each morning anew
is Pleasantville High
on Romer Avenue.

It's called construction
this disturbance
obscene.
The noise of destruction
that's part of the scene.
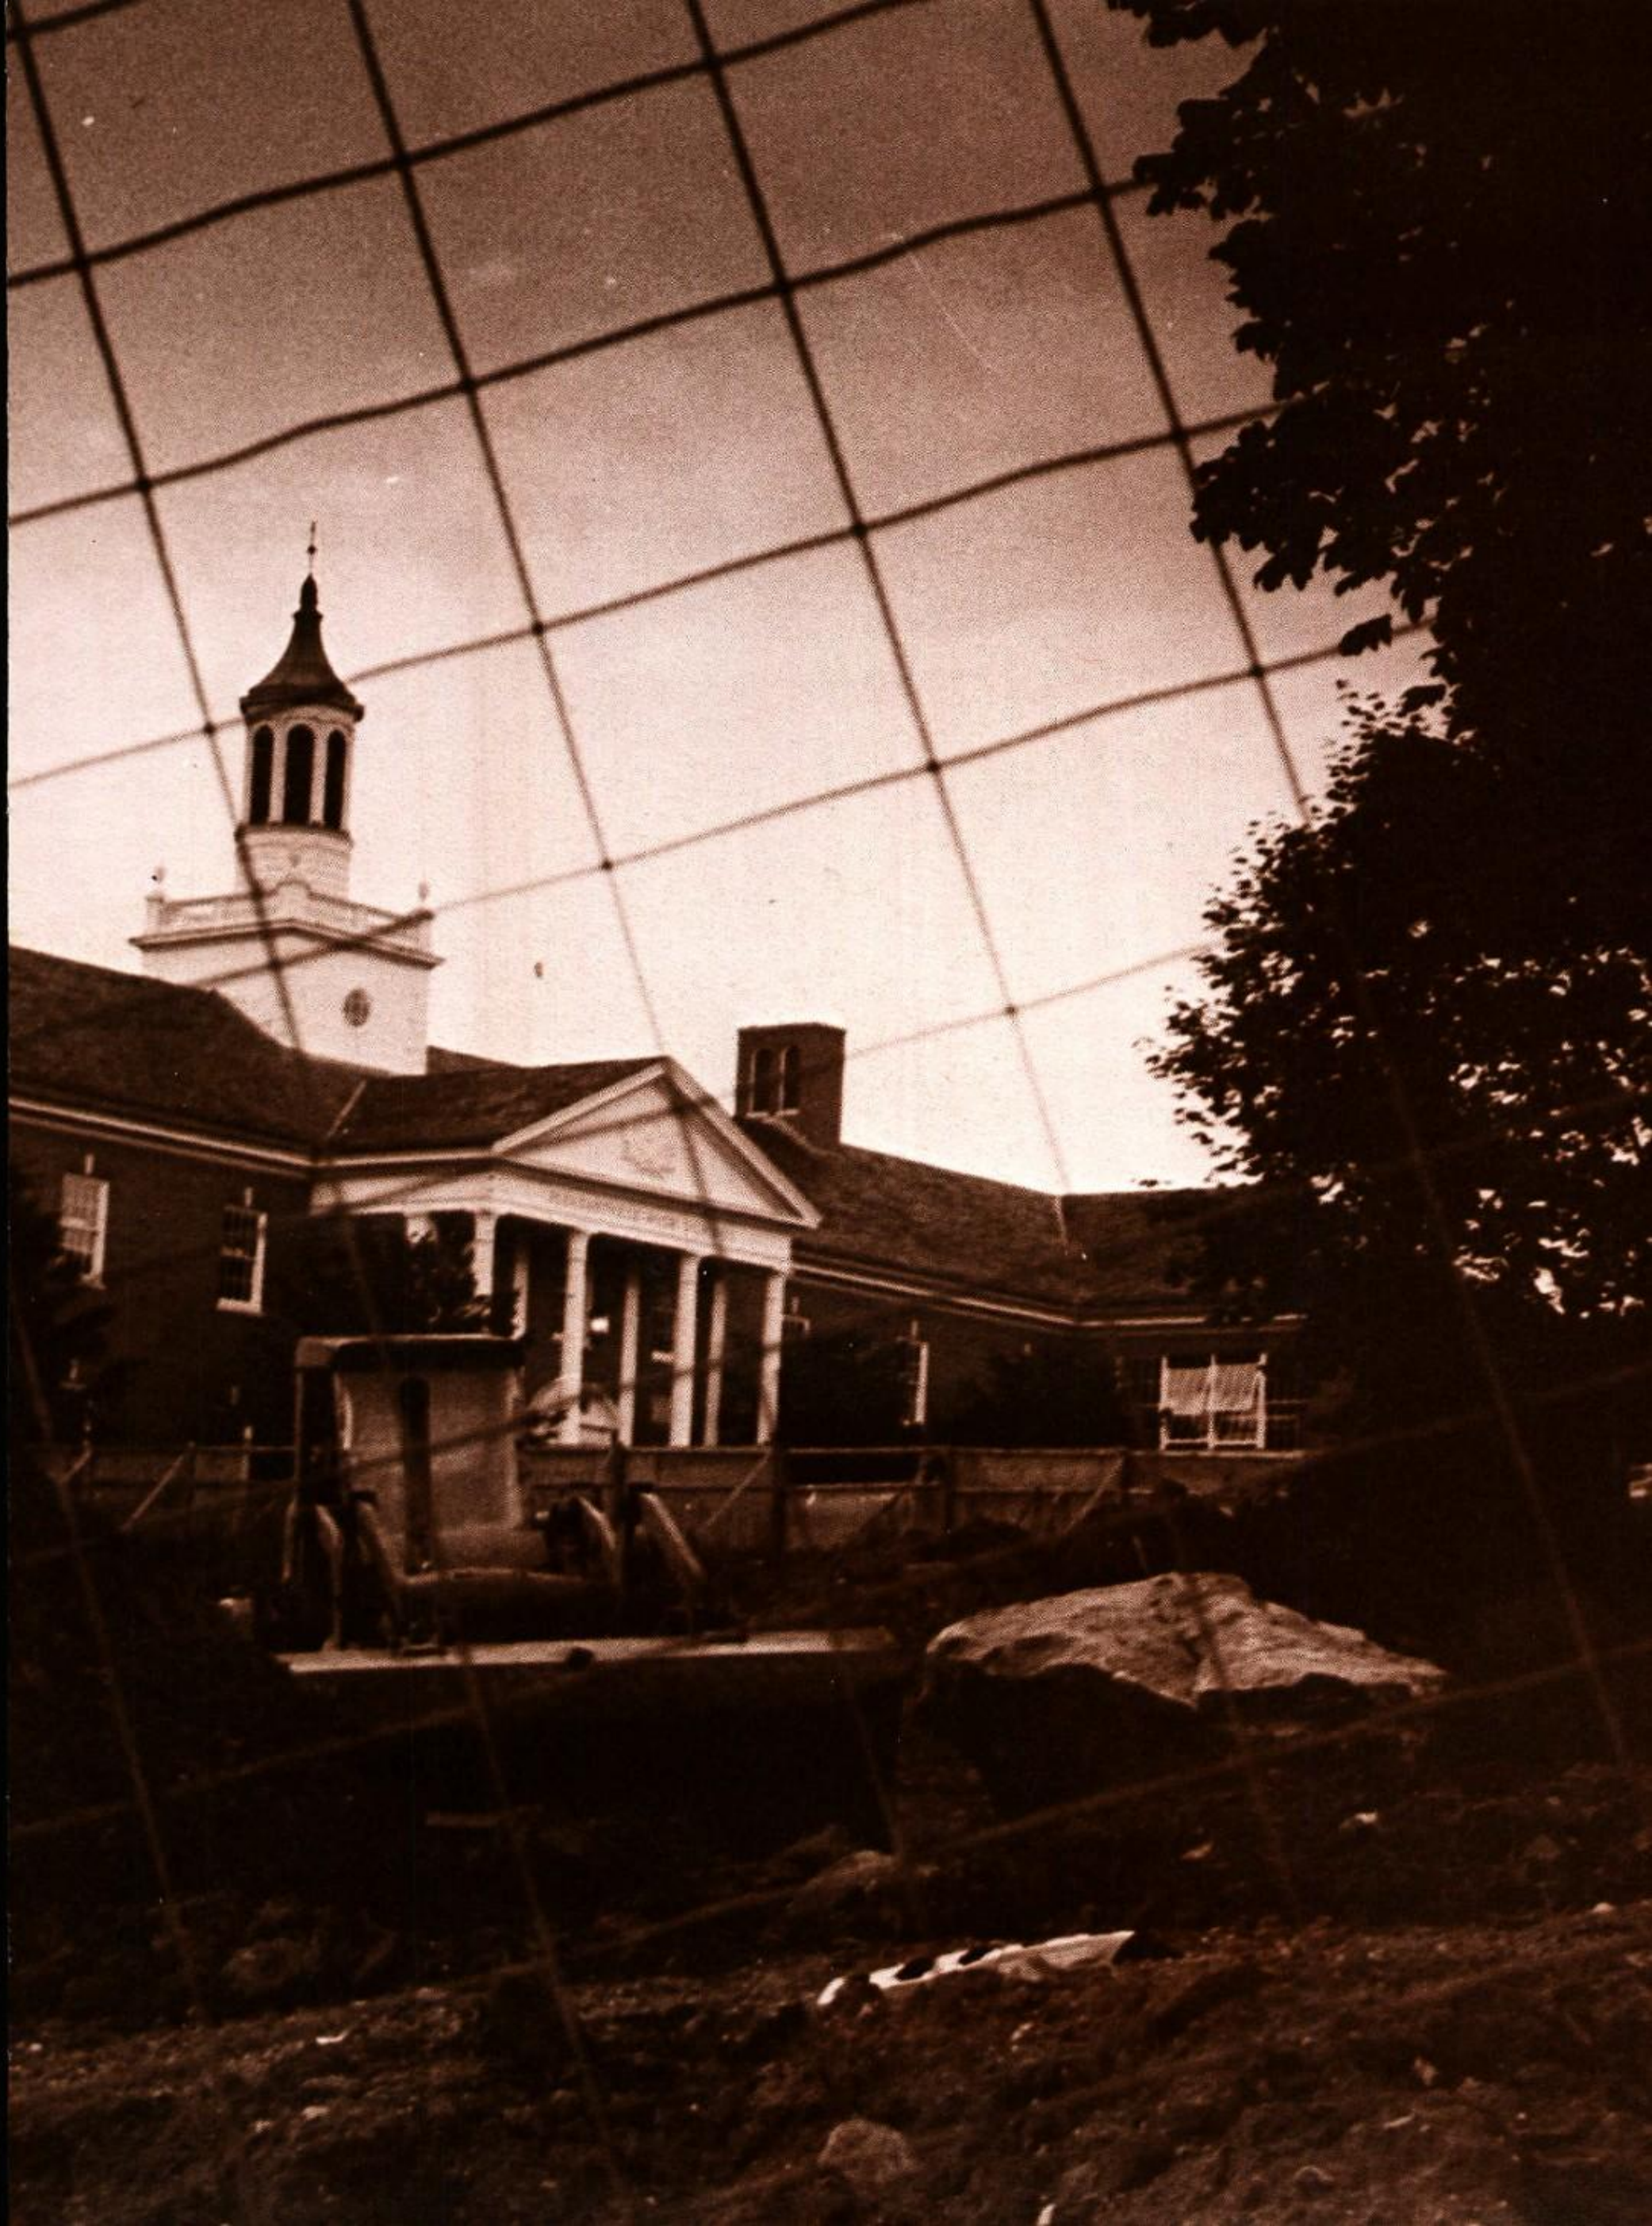
Jack hammers corrosive,
TNT quite explosive,
the noise that abounds
through the village
resounds.



But here's something different,
here's something quite strange.
The facade of the high school
has completely been changed.
Billboards ring the oval,
visitors all stare
at painted creations
on plywood once bare.

EXIT

For 43 minutes
classrooms are filled,
upstairs and down
hallways are still.
Suddenly
comes the sound
of a bell,
clanging of doors,
pounding of feet.
Rush to lockers,
books, supplies,
tumult so loud
it could make the roof rise.

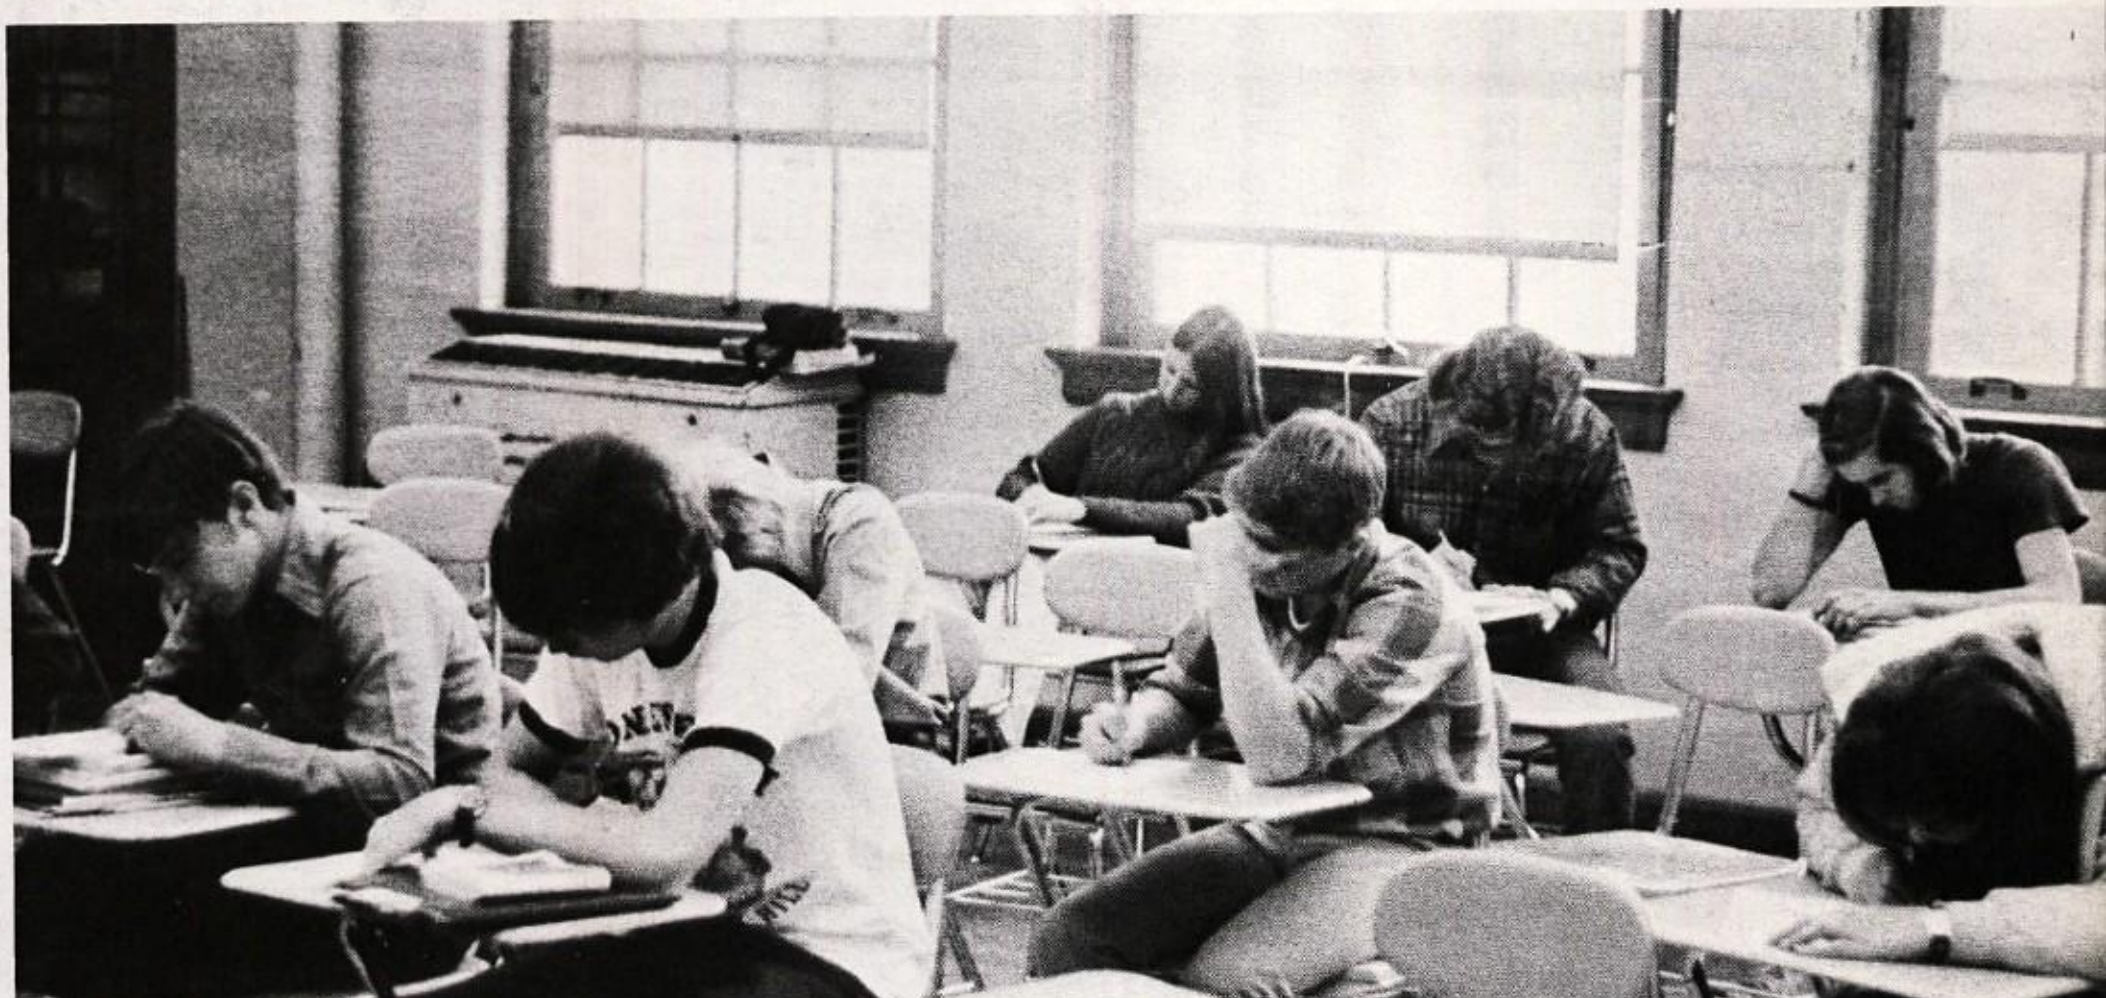
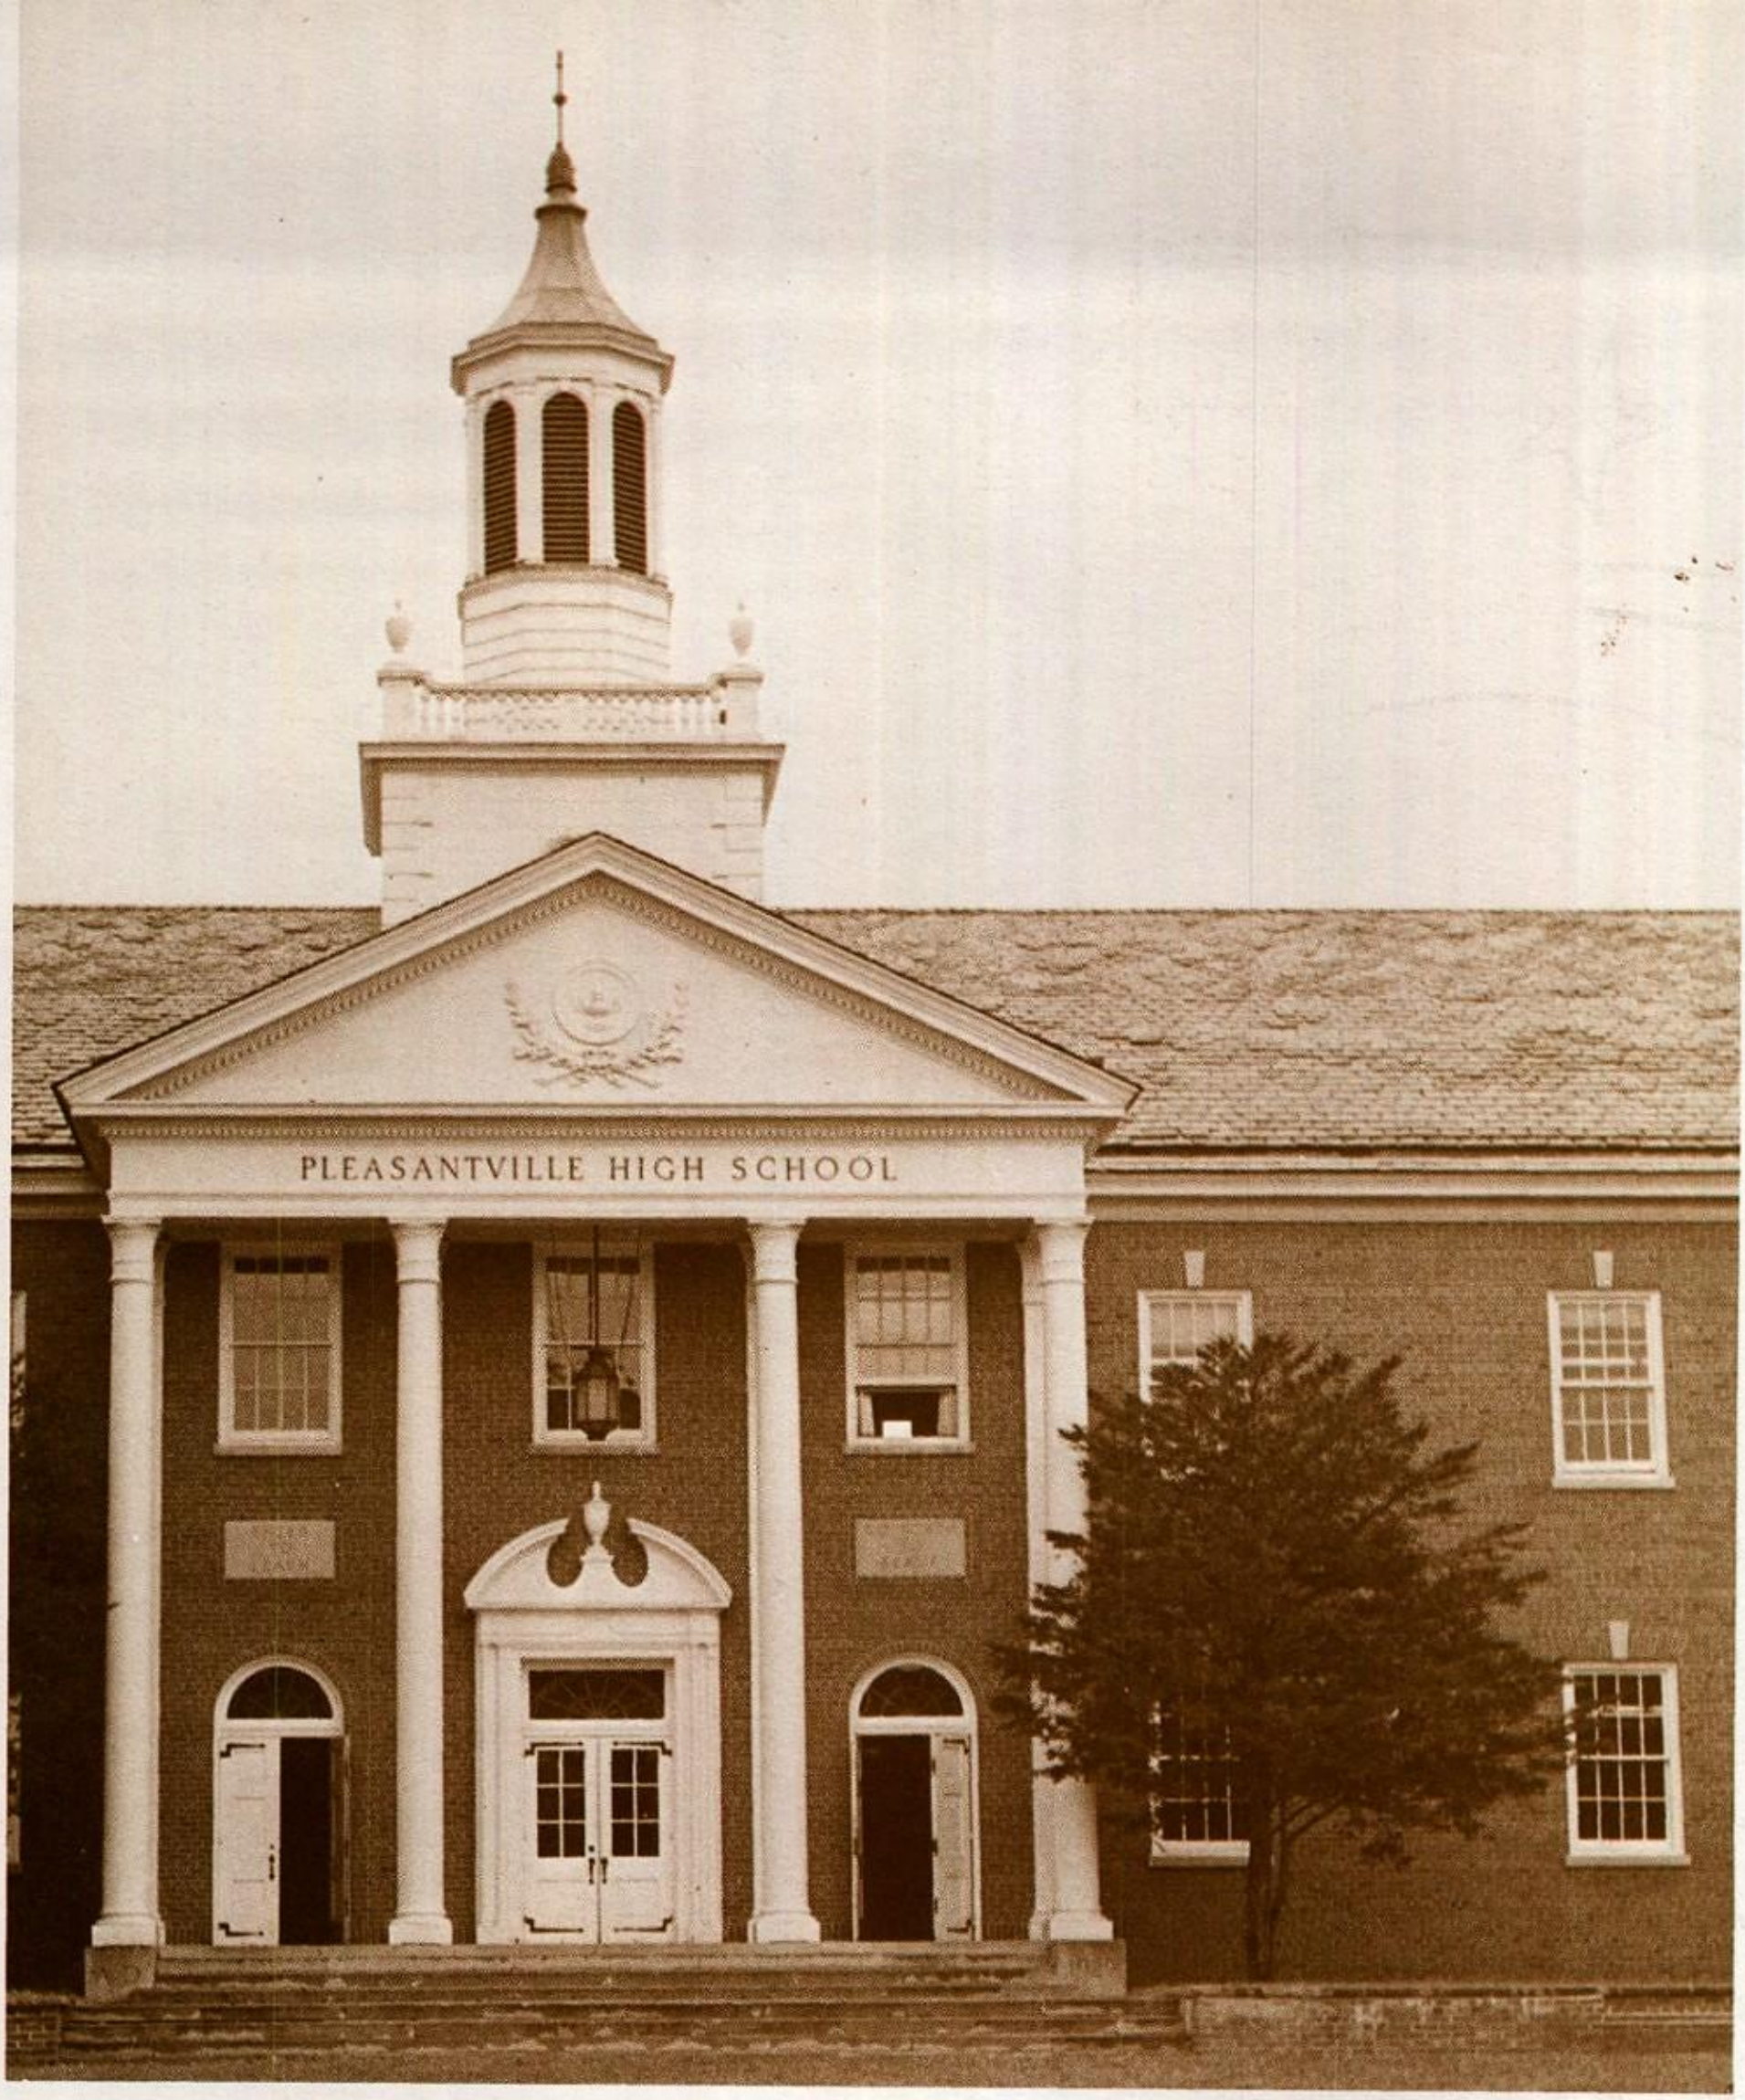
Science, Math, and English too.
A variety of knowledge students accrue,
and lots of homework for us to do.





Leaves will turn, snow will fall,
then Spring will come to renew it all.
But ever constant for all to view,
stands Pleasantville High
on Romer Avenue.

and the WORLD

The Year 1972

JANUARY

The ex-luxury liner QUEEN ELIZABETH, being refitted as a floating university in Hong Kong, is destroyed by fire on January 10.

A militantly pro-Catholic rally erupted into a riot in which British soldiers killed 13 Londonderry residents. This event became known as Bloody Sunday.

FEBRUARY

Clifford Irving's manuscript about Howard Hughes was declared a hoax by LIFE magazine on February 11.

President Nixon visits China (Feb. 17-28). U.S. and China agree to renew relations gradually. U.S. also agrees to eventually withdraw its forces from Taiwan.

MARCH

President's Commission on School Finances recommends that schools be financed by the states and not by local property taxes.

George Wallace won the Florida Presidential Primary with 42% of the Democratic vote. Hubert Humphrey finished second with 18% of the vote and top-ranked contender Senator Edmund Muskie made a weak showing with only 9% of the vote.

APRIL

Senator Edmund Muskie continues to do poorly in Presidential Primaries across the Nation. Senator George McGovern's campaign begins to pick up momentum.

North Vietnamese troops begin an offensive aimed at capturing Saigon. They succeed in partially capturing the city of An Loc, 60 miles north of Saigon.

MAY

Governor George Wallace was shot and seriously wounded in Laurel, Maryland after making a Presidential campaign speech.

President Nixon visits Russia (May 20-30). Leaders of both countries agree to treaties limiting the growth of atomic weapons.

JUNE

Record floods hit the East Coast in the wake of tropical storm Agnes. 122 people are killed in a six state area between Virginia and New York.

JULY

George McGovern is nominated by the Democratic Party to run for President. He chooses Senator Thomas Eagleton as his running mate.

AUGUST

Sargent Shriver was named as George McGovern's new running mate after the resignation of Thomas Eagleton.

The Olympic Games begin in Munich.

SEPTEMBER

Eight Palestinian commandoes raid the Olympic compound and kill eleven Israeli athletes.

OCTOBER

Hanoi announces that the U.S. and North Vietnam have agreed on a ceasefire proposal but that the U.S. is delaying the signing of it.

NOVEMBER

President Nixon wins re-election with 61% of the nations vote.

DECEMBER

Apollo 17 splashes down in the Pacific on December 19 ending the U.S.'s Manned Lunar exploration program.

U.S. resumes full-scale bombing raids on North Vietnam on December 18 and ends them on December 30. Peace negotiations are to begin again in January.

President Nixon announces that an end to the Vietnam War has arrived. Both sides have agreed to a cease-fire.
